

“Cammy” the Cameron Lake Monster

For many years people have talked about the Loch Ness Monster and Ogopogo in Lake Okanagan. Did you know that Cameron Lake also has a monster. Several people have said they have seen something very large swimming in the lake. It has been named Cammy. A cryptozoology club has scanned the lake and noticed a large object in the middle of a group of fish. The team made several more passes and the object hadn't moved. Sadly, they were unable to get any more detailed information because they had lost their underwater camera. Is there a monster living in the lake? That's up to you to decide.

Here you are going to make your own Cammy.

Step 1 Form one end of the pipe cleaner into a triangle shape to form the head.

Step 2 Wind the pipe cleaner around your finger to form the body.

Step 3 Leave the other end of the pipe cleaner sticking out, or bend up to form a tail.

Step 4 Glue or use double sided tape to attach your lake monster to the clothes pin.

Step 5 Glue or use double sided tape to stick the eyes on the head.

Step 6 Glue or use very small pieces of double sided tape to put sequins on Cammy.
